Research in English Language Teaching

Description:
This course is intended to introduce research in English Language Teaching. The course encompasses terms commonly used in educational research and its crucial steps involving research problem formulation, literature review, and data collection methods. This course also introduces approaches in educational research: quantitative and qualitative, and research combining both approaches. This research also introduces current issues in research covering research ethics, validity, and reliability.

Materials:
1. Introduction to Research
2. Qualitative Research
   a. Basic Qualitative Design
   b. Case Study Design
   c. Document and Content Analysis
3. Quantitative Research
   a. Survey Design
   b. Experimental Design
   c. Correlation Design
4. Mixed Method Research
   a. Mixed Method Design
   b. Classroom Action Research 5. Issues in Research
   a. Ethics
   b. Validity and Reliability
   c. Population and sampling 6. Process of research
   a. Formulating RQ,
   b. Developing Literature Review,
   c. Data Collection
   d. Data Analysis,
   e. Report writing—findings and discussion